TUESDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 11

A FAST YOUNG MAN-HOW HE ROBBED A FRIEND-THE TABLES TURNED-Henry Stovens, alias Frederick Williams, was taken into custody by Detective Irving at the drug store, No. 1442 Broadway, on Wednesday evening last, and conveyed to the station-house, from thence to the Police Court, and committed for trial.

Young Stevens has for some time past been engaged as a book-keeper in a firm down town, and it is said is connected with a family of the highest respects ility, through which he was circulated in good society, of which he was fond, and to sustain his role of a gentleman (?) contracted debts which he found it difficult to liquidate. Among his acquaintances was a gentleman named Doctor Hunter, who kept a drug store at No. 1442 Broadway, corner of Forty-third steeet.

Stevens, alias Williams, had been in the habit of sitting in the store, and enjoying a smoke with the Doctor, until closing-up time, when they both reparied to a beer salcon, and enjoyed games of dominoes, eards, &c. On Monday evening last, Stevens acted very strangely, but not so as to excite the suspicions of his friend. At the time of closing up, the druggist extinguished the gas light, and the two men left the store together. Stevens, alias Williams, stopped at the corner of Forty-third street, ostensibly to see if "his folks were still up," and the doctor proceeded to the salcon, where the former was to join him speedily. As soon as the doctor was out of sight, Stevens entered the door on the Forty-third street side, which he had slyly unlocked when Dr. Hunter was turning off the gas, and proceeded to the money drawer, from which he abstracted $120, then left the store, proceeded to the saloon, and joined the doctor in a game of dominoes. After they had become tired they left, and under pretence that he was cold. and wished to warm himself before going to bed, Stevens induced the doctor to go into the store again. Before the latter had an opportunity to re-light the gas, Stevens hurried to the rear of the store, stating he wished a drink, and quickly re-locked the door by which he had entered. When the theft was discovered, Detective Irving was consulted, and his knowledge of men and things suggested who the criminal was, and the upshot of the matter was that Stevens, alias Williams, was arrested, whereupon he confessed the whole affair, and was committed in default of $1,500 bail by Justice Dodge. This young man Stevens is a nephew of the lady who so rigorously prosecuted the charge of picking pockets against the unfortu-nate Rev. G. T. Williams, of Virginia, who was a victim of circumstantial evidence. The lady was then very desirous that the law should be vindicated, and, unpleasant as was her duty, she felt herself compelled to prosecute the matter to its fullest extent, the evident innocence of the minister to the contrary notwithstanding. Now she has changed her mind, and is confident that the ends of justice will be amply satisfied by allowing her to give Doctor Hunter a check for $120, and discharging her nephew. She thinks it an outrage that a young man of his respectability should be so rigorously prosecuted even if he is guilty. We seldom saw a case where, in so short a time, the tables have been so completely turned. The lady who was a lover of justice will now feel the mjustice she did Rev. Mr. Williams, and, perhaps, will be cautious in the future. Meanwhile, her "darling nephew, Harry" has a good prospect of taking a sojourn up the Hudson, where he will be "shaved," stripped of his gaudy and fashonable attire, put in among felons and convicts, and boarded at the we have ever exhibited in thi-city.
